Details

    Are you a coder, designer, entrepreneur - or just curious about how design and technology can make life easier for students? Come work with our team of international developers and university professionals to share and develop your ideas for a range of student apps—and compete for $6,000 in awards and the chance to further develop a prototype. The top three teams will enter a six month incubation period with support from the university, from which one project will be chosen to receive funding.
